

Zach, Richelle, Britton, and Evie

Faith

God put adoption on my (Richelle) heart at a young age and I am blessed to have a husband that supports and wants to pursue this dream for our family. God is continuing to write our story just as He is writing yours. I pray that God blesses you along the way!

Family

We live in a smaller community with almost all of our extended family. Our kids are very close to their grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins. We love being together and doing fun activities such as cousin camping trips, hanging out at our small river's sandbar, and eating together for Sunday dinner.

Hope

We talk about our hopes and dreams often. Our children can't wait for another brother or sister. We talk about and wonder if the baby will be a boy or girl, what he or she will look like, whether the baby will be fun and energetic like Britton, or spunky and sweet like Evie or maybe bring a whole different set of character traits to our family.

Love

We want our child to know how much he or she is loved. If willing, we want this child to know his or her birthparents. We want him or her to know how brave, selfless, and respected their birthmother is.

Dear expectant mother,

I won't pretend to know what you have or are going through. What I do know is..... we have prayed a long time for this future child. We know in God's timing, He would reveal who this child is. I pray that He reveals which couple would be the best fit for you and this baby. I pray that whomever you choose, you will be blessed and have peace in this life changing decision.

I am a Preschool teacher and love my students - I love their different personalities, different backgrounds, and different family dynamics. It's what makes the classroom fun, interesting, and whole. I have known for a long time that our family will be whole and complete with our future adopted child.

My husband works as a Correctional Officer and is a great dad! He insists on putting the children to bed each night with a story and snuggle time, refusing to work nights so he can be with the kids as much as possible.

Thank you for taking the time to get to know us and considering us for your child. No matter whom you choose, you can never be thanked enough!

One hundred years from now, It won't matter what car I drove, What kind of house I lived in, How much I had in my bank account, Nor what my clothes looked like, But, the world may be a little better Because I was important in the life of a child

- Forest E. Witcraft